INTRODUCTION

Kwe', welta'si na' pekisin ("Hello, I'm glad you came," in Mi'kmaq).

Through this incredible gift of life, we all have a purpose and a calling deep within our souls: to be the best we can and to learn unconditional love for ourselves and for others. It is through this love my calling and life's purpose became known.

The wisdom and insight I have gained from my experiences have been nothing short of life changing. In fact, the trajectory of my time on this physical earth has become so clear that it has changed every aspect of how I see reality. It made me realize how we are all connected—even after supposed death—to the point I no longer believe in death. Death is an illusion.

We all have been taught, in the scientific method, that energy cannot be destroyed, but instead it transforms into something else or transfers to somewhere else. Into what or where, however, cannot be explained with the same method—even with modern science. We do not cease to live when we leave this physical life; rather, we transform into our true essence (that of the spirit) and return to our true home within the light.

Looking back, I can see how every experience brought me to the knowledge and understanding I have today. In this book I share some of these remarkable experiences, which are taken from real life and real people alive in both the physical and spiritual worlds. If I had not lived to experience them myself, I am not sure I would truly believe.

It is through the process of spirit communication that I was taught a new language: the language of Spirit. It is a universal language that transcends all spoken languages, on this planet and every planet in the universe.

I never took a class in this language; I never took a course on spirituality. Rather, it is something that just revealed itself to me; and I feel as though this was my true calling all my life—made, perhaps, as a soul contract before my current incarnation as Shawn Leonard. Perhaps I was chosen in this way to help people come to a new understanding of the spiritual world.

I have trouble calling this knowledge and understanding a gift, as so many people refer to it. I like to tell people I know another language, and that I am a spirit talker. I truly feel blessed to have had these experiences, which have helped form my ever-changing reality.

Through my life's journey I have learned about the spirit world, spirit communication, spirit guides, angels, animal totems, and reincarnation. Most rewarding of all, I have rediscovered my lost Indigenous culture and how spiritually enriched our culture is.

Indigenous people have always had an incredible blend of life and Spirit. It has been taken from us, and now is the time for us to remember and help the balance return to our world. We are all living in the same sacred hoop of life.

My intention with writing and sharing these experiences is to help you see the world as I do, as not everybody has the same insight into the spiritual realm. Every day, through my culture, my readings, my live events, and my encounters with the spirit world, I continue to learn.

In sharing my story, wisdom, and knowledge, I hope it will help you change how you see the physical and spiritual worlds. Shifting your perspective in such a way will allow you to encounter these great gifts in your own life; you will encounter the spirit world with new eyes. You will have the wisdom, and vision, to know our Creator resides in us all. You will gain the ability to see, feel, hear, and know the spirit within yourself, and help return balance of life and Spirit once again.

I firmly believe we are made of the visible and invisible universe, with the Great Spirit as our Creator. Almost 99 percent of the mass of the human body is comprised of six elements: oxygen, carbon, hydrogen, nitrogen, calcium, and phosphorus. If you break down every particle, there isn't anything solid—just energy vibrating at your ever-changing frequency.

This means that at every moment we become a new creation on a cellular level. In the same way, we become a new creation on a spiritual level with every new experience. Yet we all exist in this world as conscious, living human beings. We couldn't have consciousness if it wasn't abundant in the universe, and if we were not all part of, and made from, it.

You were surrounded by our Creator's loving energy before your conceived incarnation in what you perceive as your present earthly form. Spirit is your true form, meaning you have never been separated from our Creator, nor the greater consciousness of all spirits.

Each and every single person on this earth is equally important, and as we evolve our Creator evolves alongside us through our experiences—through this life and every life we live. The experience of our Creator extends to everything in our world and to every planet in the universe.

We cannot be separated from that which resides within, or from that which is all around us. It is the bond of love from our Creator that binds us all. When we love our family, our friends, our pets, our planet, when we admire the vastness and greatness of the universe, we are loving and honoring our Creator. We are all one.

Even if you feel separate from the people or animals you loved who are now within the spirit world, remember this is also an illusion. Allow me to help you understand how they are still with you, and how they still communicate with you. I am glad the Great Spirit, our Creator, found a way to guide you to my book. I pray my experiences, my story, and my knowledge enlighten you and give you a new understanding of both the spirit world and spirit communication.

I ultimately hope my stories help you to remember who you are, and that you walk with balance in the sacred hoop of life, knowing you have a divine purpose, and you are, and always have been, Spirit.

Wela'lin (Thank you)

Enjoy, and share in my wisdom with love.
